

We are pleased to announce that the South Carolina Entomological Society will hold its 70th annual meeting at the Osher Lifelong Learning Institute in Clemson (100 Thomas Green Blvd, Clemson, SC, 29631) on October 3rd and 4th. Our Keynote Speaker and Cochrane Excellence in Entomology Awardee from 2023 is Dr. Gloria McCutcheon. There will be insect photography at the Clemson Botanical Garden and a cookout and light trapping at the Cherry Farm Laboratory on the evening of the 3rd. Bring your own chair or picnic blanket and let Tim Drake (tdrake@clemson.edu) know if you have special meal requirements.

You can register for the meeting here

Please note that students can apply for sponsored student membership and/or student meeting registration. Reach out to David Jenkins (djenkins@scfc.gov) if you wish to request a sponsored membership or registration. They are limited so it is first come first served. If you plan to present an oral presentation or poster at the meeting please use the attached submission form. Presentations will be ten minutes long with two minutes for questions. Posters should fit on 48"x48" poster boards.

If you have any questions, please reach out to myself, David Jenkins (djenkins@scfc.gov) or Tim Drake (tdrake@clemson.edu).

We are looking forward to seeing you in Clemson!

David Jenkins, President, SCES

Tim Drake, Vice President SCES
